SOUTH ITALY QUAKE KILLS 270 GERMAN BRIDGE CRASH FATAL TO 38

CROWDED WITH MERRYMAKERS, CITY OF COBLENZ

WEAKENED AND CONDEMNED BRIDGE COULD NOT CARRY OVERLOAD

JOY OF RHINELAND LIBERATION TURNED TO SORROW BY TRAGEDY

Coblentz, Germany, July 23.—(U.P.)—A weakened and condemned iron bridge crowded with holiday-makers watching the Rhineland liberation celebration here last night, collapsed and carried more than 100 men, women and children into the Moselle river.

The governor of the Coblentz district announced a corrected official death list of 38 today. Sixteen were badly injured and 25 or more of the others were suffering from submersion and shock. Previously the governor had announced 52 dead, but 14 missing persons were discovered alive.

The joy of the Rhineland, in the midst of its jubilant celebration of its freedom from allied occupation, was turned to sorrow by the tragedy. President Paul Von Hindenburg, who had been making a triumphant tour of the liberated regions, broke off his trip and returned to Berlin. Before leaving, he contributed 10,000 marks to start a relief fund and attended memorial services in the Coblentz town hall. Dazed mourners passed in file before the array of coffins.

Coblentz, Germany, July 23.—An official announcement today said 38 persons were known dead in the collapse of a condemned iron bridge during a Rhineland liberation celebration last night.

Numerous other persons who had joined in the celebrations still were missing from their homes, the announcement said, and it was feared they, too, had been plunged into the Moselle river when the bridge fell.

Grief replaced the exultation of the liberated territory as firemen dragged the deep waters expecting to find other bodies. It was believed more than 100 people had collected on the forbidden structure for a last glimpse of the brilliant fireworks marking Coblentz's farewell to President Paul Von Hindenburg. Only 27 persons were brought out alive, most of them severely injured.

The bridge collapsed without warning near the end of a gala day in the Coblentz territory. A fireworks display was held in Ehrenbreitstein last evening to conclude the day's program. As merry-makers walked homeward, many of them paused on the bridge for one last look.

Others joined them until the old bridge, which long before had been closed to the public, broke under their weight and dropped them screaming and kicking into 20 feet of water.

Most of those who had been on the bridge were girls between the ages of 16 and 20, and many others who knew their daughters had gone to Ehrenbreitstein to watch the fireworks, wept and wrung their hands as they watched the slow rescue work. Only a few of the victims were men.

President Paul Von Hindenburg, who had taken an active part in the daylight celebrations at Coblentz as part of his tour of the Rhineland territory, cancelled his scheduled visits to Treves and Aix-La-Chapelle when he was informed of the disaster this morning.

As the grieving crowd stood along the banks of the Moselle, Coblentz, unaware of the tragedy, continued its merry-making in saloons, restaurants and in the streets. It was only when police ordered all saloons closed immediately that the news spread here. Saloons previously were authorized to remain open all night.

Immediately the celebrants in the city hurried to the scene, and flags throughout the city went to half mast. The noise of laughter and music faded gradually away as the news reached to the most remote part of the city, and by midnight Coblentz was hushed.

Hot, Dry Weather Causes Damage to Spring Wheat

Washington, July 23.—(U.P.)—Hot, dry weather has caused serious damage to the spring wheat crop in many parts of the wheat belt, the agriculture department reported today in its weekly weather and crop bulletin. Rains also are badly needed for corn, and the crop already has deteriorated generally.

"Rain is seriously needed throughout the spring wheat belt," the bulletin said, "including many Rocky mountain sections."

8 MASTER MINDS OF SCIENCE TO SETTLE PARENTAGE

Chicago, July 23.—(U.P.)—It was up to eight master minds of science today to settle once and for all the parentage of babies Bamberger and Watkins.

The verdict of the scientists, which will clear up scientifically at any rate, whether Mr. and Mrs. William Watkins and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bamberger will have to trade babies three weeks after birth, probably will be delayed until tomorrow, it appeared today as the "jury" still pondered over data obtained in a day of examinations.

DETERMINED TO CURB WAVE OF BANK BANDITRY

NETTED ROBBERS OVER $200,000 IN 3 MIDWESTERN STATES

BANKING ASSOCIATIONS OF MIN- NESOTA AND DAKOTAS TAKE ACTION

Minneapolis, Minn., July 23.—(U.P.)—Determined to curb the wave of northwest bank holdups that have netted more than $200,000 this summer, officers of banking associations of Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota met today in special executive session.

Means of discouraging bank banditry in these three northwest states were discussed in a secret session this afternoon. The meeting was held in the Minnesota Bankers' Association offices.

George Susens, secretary of the Minnesota association, called the meeting. He said bankers had decided on the necessity of the action after the $67,000 robbery at the bank of Willmar last week. Bankers, he said, believed a bandit syndicate was responsible for the holdups.

Publicity will not be given the plans adopted by the bankers, Susens said, because they did not propose to give the bandits any advance information. Proposals which were understood to be under discussion at the meeting included:

1. Establishment of better communication between bankers' protective associations.
2. Improvement in police methods affecting bank holdups.
3. Closer co-operation between banks, police and citizens.
4. Proposal of legislation imposing stricter penalties for conviction in bank robberies or attempted bank robberies.

Bankers reported that the costs of protective insurance in the northwest had jumped from $1.50 per $1,000 a year to $5 since the recent wave of holdups.

BODY OF PREACHER FOUND IN THE HILLS

REV. THOS. W. HOWARD, OF MIN- NESOTA, MET DEATH NEAR TUCSON, ARIZ.

Tucson, Ariz., July 23.—(U.P.)—The body of the Rev. Thomas W. Howard, 74, Minnesota circuit rider, who wandered away from his home here June 7, was found late yesterday in the mountains four miles west of Tucson.

Rev. Howard was believed to have fallen exhausted in the heat wave during the first part of June. Posses, including Indian trailers, searched desert lands and mountain regions for weeks in an effort to locate him.

The minister's son, a Wheaton, Minn., newspaperman, came here and appealed to Governor John C. Phillips to call out national guard airplanes to aid in the search.

MIKE, FOX TERRIER VOICED PARROT, IS CRAFTY BIRD

Mendota, Minn., July 23.—(U.P.)—Mike, the fox terrier voiced parrot, apparently had a perfect tip-off system. Mike was still in seclusion 24 hours after his owner, Arnold Hillesheim, consented to "shoot to kill" orders. Mike escaped to the farm of Walter Sell when Hillesheim and a group of four friends spent a day in vain search for the bird. Yesterday Hillesheim in desperation allowed Sell the right to shoot. But then Mike vanished.

Washington State Asks I. C. C. to Reopen Proceedings on Proposed G. N.-N. P. Merger

SIMILAR ACTION IS REQUESTED BY MONTANA, MINN.

WASHINGTON SAYS CONSOLIDA- TION FAILED TO CONSIDER EFFECT ON EMPLOYEES

MONTANA ALSO ENDORSED THE BRIEF FILED BY STATE OF MINNESOTA

Washington, July 23.—(U.P.)—The department of public works of Washington state petitioned the interstate commerce commission today to reopen proceedings on the consolidation of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads.

Similar action also has been requested by Montana and Minnesota utilities commissions.

In its petition the Washington public works department said it subscribed to the belief of the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission, which requested the reopening on the ground the commission failed to take into account the effect of the consolidation on the employees of the two roads.

Montana endorsed the Minnesota brief in its petition. Montana also contended the large body of citizens of the state were denied the right to present their interests and rights in the issues involved in the consolidation.

Washington, July 23.—The interstate commerce commission refused yesterday to reopen its railway consolidation proceedings, under which it announced last December 9 an elaborate and comprehensive plan for merger of the country's railroads into 19 systems.

Body of James Eads How, 'Millionaire Hobo,' is to be Cremated

Washington, July 23.—(U.P.)—The body of James Eads How, who during most of his life scorned riches to seek the companionship of hoboes, was brought today from Staunton, Va., for cremation in accordance with his last wishes.

The "millionaire hobo" died yesterday in Staunton of pneumonia, "evidently superinduced by starvation," physicians said. He died a few hours after entering the hospital in a weakened condition which was due partly to irregular eating.

Early in life How elected to seek the society of tramps and he acted as chairman at nearly all the hobo conventions.

John L. Lewis Convicted of Contempt of Court

Springfield, Ill., July 23.—(U.P.)—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, was convicted of contempt of court by Judge Charles G. Briggie today and fined $500.

Fourteen associates of Lewis also were convicted of contempt but were not punished.

'DEATH VALLEY SCOTTY' STRONG ON BASEBALL

Tonopah, Nev., July 23.—(U.P.)—"Death Valley Scotty," who has gained much publicity by his frequent bids for fame, has adopted baseball as his latest fad.

Scotty announced today that he had organized a team and would match it Sunday against the Tonopah Muckers. In order to encourage home runs he said he would present a $100 bill for every circuit clout.

"My team is composed of raw material now," Scotty said. "But wait until I show them into shape. Why, every big league scout in the country will be trying to take my men away from me."

3 BANDITS WHO ROBBED HARTFORD BANK, TRAILED

ESCAPED AFTER ROBBING WIS- CONSIN TOWN BANK OF $85,000

STATE-WIDE SEARCH UNDER WAY, CENTERS ON WOODED RESORT SECTIONS

Hartford, Wis., July 23.—(U.P.)—Three men who held up the First National bank of Hartford and escaped with $85,000 after hitting the cashier with a pistol were the object of a state-wide police search today.

Deputies centered their activities in heavily wooded resort sections near here, but the hunt also was extended to Milwaukee and other sections.

Offers of $1,500 reward for capture of the bandits alive or double that amount for killing them caused many to join the search. Sheriff Theodore Holtebeck of Washington county went to Milwaukee to enlist aid of police there.

The sheriff disclosed that suspicion was directed there because a letter with a Milwaukee postmark sent in care of general delivery was claimed shortly before the robbery by a man who answered the description of one of the bandits.

Five bank employees, including Cashier Roy W. Bailey, were in the bank when the bandits entered yesterday. There also were two customers. Bailey was injured when struck on the head with the butt of a pistol.

The accident occurred at Elizabeth, N. J. The train became derailed some 500 feet after striking the automobile. INDICTED MEN OF MOTORS PARTS CO. FACE ARREST

FEDERAL AUTHORITIES BRING TOTAL ON ARREST OR ON BOND TO 12

OFFICIALS AND SALESMEN IN- CLUDED IN THOSE INDICTED IN DIAMOND MOTORS PARTS CO.

St. Paul, July 23.—(U.P.)—Starting a new drive to arrest indicted officials and salesmen of the Diamond Motors Parts Co., St. Paul, federal authorities today brought the total under arrest or on bond to 12.

Eight new arrests were made in Chicago and Detroit yesterday, M. F. Kinkaid, assistant U. S. district attorney reported.

Many of those arrested had been in touch with the authorities for some time. Difficulties about adjusting their bonds had prevented their earlier surrender, it was said.

Most of the salesmen and officers posted bonds and were released immediately.

Those arrested in Chicago included Elmer Smith, former Vice President Charles Fried, L. J. Ascher, J. J. Figman, A. J. Sugar and S. N. Bernstein, all former salesmen. In Detroit, H. W. Carls, former salesman and Vernon Schleider, former secretary-treasurer were arrested.

Bond of $7,500 was posted by Smith and $5,000 by Carls and Schleider. The others were required to furnish $1,500 bond.

Others indicted on mail fraud charges in connection with the concern who have already been arrested include George Bouthinson, former president, Frank E. Moxham, M. M. Naftlin and H. J. Himmelstein.

PREDICTS WORLD MAY EXPECT MORE SEVERE QUAKES

New York, July 23.—(U.P.)—The world may expect a series of severe earthquakes in the next few months, according to Rev. Joseph Lynch, in charge of the seismograph at Fordham university.

Father Lynch explained that no earthquakes of importance were registered between November and May, which is very unusual and added that "when none occur for a period of six months, we can expect that in the following period there will be quite a number of unusual force."

GLENN CURTISS, AVIATION PIONEER, PASSES AWAY

DIED FROM A BLOOD CLOT ON LUNG DISCOVERED AFTER OPERATION

20 YEARS AGO HE STARTLED THE WORLD, FLYING FROM AL- BANY TO NEW YORK

Buffalo, N. Y., July 23.—(U.P.)—Glenn Curtiss, one of aviation's pioneers, died today from a blood clot on the lung discovered after a recent appendicitis operation.

The aviation pioneer—who 20 years ago startled the world by making a flight from Albany to New York City—was brought to a Buffalo hospital a little more than a week ago suffering from appendicitis. An immediate operation was ordered.

The operation, doctors said, was successful. Afterward, however, the clot touching upon the lung was found. This brought his death at a local hospital today.

Curtiss' death was so unexpected that Mrs. Curtiss, who had been keeping an almost constant vigil at his bedside, was at a downtown hotel. Only his nurse was with him.

PLANE NOSES OVER, PILOT IS INJURED

R. A. HOSTER A CONTESTANT IN THE ALL-AMERICAN AIR DERBY

Lunken Airport, Cincinnati, O., July 23.—(U.P.)—Pilot R. A. Hoster of Detroit, contestant in the All-American Air Derby, was injured today when his Simplex plane nosed over as the 12 ships remaining in the race took off on the fourth lap for Little Rock, Ark.

Hoster's injuries were not immediately determined. He shot away from the starting tape with his motors wide open but the ship apparently refused to respond to her rudder and nosed over after Hoster sped down the runway for 3,000 yards.

Hoster was able to climb from the wreckage but was badly shaken and was removed to a hospital. The plane was demolished.

WARFARE OVER LINGLE MURDER

CHICAGO TRIBUNE AND CHICAGO HERALD AND EXAMINER NEAR LEGAL BATTLE

Chicago, July 23.—(U.P.)—Newspaper warfare between the Chicago Tribune and the Chicago Herald and Examiner over the Lingle murder case investigation threatened today to engage the two papers in a bitter legal battle.

Notice of a $250,000 libel suit against the Herald and Examiner by Robert M. Lee, city editor of the Tribune, was on file today.

Lee charged the Lingle case editorial carried yesterday on the front page of the Herald and Examiner under the heading, "Who Killed Lingle and Why?" implied he knew that Alfred Lingle, Tribune reporter, was engaged in gangland rackets.

Under the same banner line, "Who Killed Lingle and Why?" the Herald and Examiner made its reply today.

"No such suggestion by implication or in any other form appeared in the editorial, and the astonishing thought came practically out of the blue," the Herald and Examiner said.

LIGHTNING AND THUNDER HEADS FIRST BIG SHOCK

APPALLING REPORTS OF DEATH AND RUIN FROM MANY CITIES

RESCUE WORKERS HAMPERED BY DARKNESS, ALL LIGHTS SHAKEN OUT

Naples, Italy, July 23.—(U.P.)—The widespread devastation left by an earthquake which rocked southern Italy shortly after midnight was revealed today in appalling reports of death and ruin from many cities.

Report received here until shortly before noon listed 270 persons dead and 618 injured in eight cities in middle Italy. One hundred were officially reported dead at Melfi, Capitanata district, where virtually the entire city was demolished. The search for bodies continued there.

Early incomplete death tolls in other cities most seriously affected by the earthquake were:

Naples, 10; Ribolla, 20; Rio Nero, 11; Atella, 6; Mercato San Sese, 2; Buonalbergo, 3; and Caserta, 2.

Relief was hampered in Naples and many other cities during the night's darkness by the absence of electric lights, worked more rapidly with coming of daybreak, removing the dead and injured from the debris. Rescue work still was in its early stages, however.

Araldo Crollalanza, Italian minister of public works, hurried to Rome to supervise relief measures. He was at the watering place, Mont De Cabini, near Florence, when the earthquake struck.

Under-Secretary of Public Works Leoni already was enroute to the stricken area.

Premier Mussolini ordered Senator Filippo Cremonesi, head of the Italian Red Cross, to organize relief for the stricken area immediately.

The quake struck Naples, 27½ miles from the epicenter, at 1:06 A. M. Lightning, accompanied by heavy rumblings resembling thunder, preceded the first and most violent shock, which lasted 42 seconds. It was followed by two lighter and shorter shocks which drove inhabitants from their homes in terror.

The city was plunged in darkness, since the three shocks broke all electric cables, and troops were commanded to preserve order and prevent plundering.

Virtually every building in the slum section of Naples was cracked and many collapsed. The so-called Casanova bridge here was broken and the seismograph instrument in the Vesuvius observatory were put out of order.

Melfi, 76 miles east of Naples and on the basis of early reports apparently the worst sufferer, was virtually destroyed. The town has a population of approximately 12,000 persons, and is built on the volcanic peak, Monte Vulture.

Rome, July 23.—A new earth shock was registered in Naples at 6:35 A. M. today.

The stricken zone stretched due east from Naples across southern Italy, centering north of the instep of the "boot."

As reports continued to come in, the casualty list grew hourly. The province of Avellino appeared to have been badly stricken, with probably 100 or more dead and an unestimated number of injured.

Heavy casualties also were reported from the provinces of Foggia, Benevento and Naples.

WIDE AREA OF ITALY DEVASTATED

By THOMAS B. MORGAN

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Naples, July 23.—A wide area of southern Italy was devastated early today by an earthquake that extended from Naples on the Mediterranean side to the province of Foggia on the Adriatic, spreading death and devastation over several thousand square miles.

Reports of casualties poured in steadily over disrupted communication lines from the stricken area, indicating a death list of hundreds, with more than a thousand injured.

Incomplete official lists this afternoon showed more than 270 dead and about 1,000 injured.

The United Press correspondent reached Naples from Rome to find the city in confusion, but with the death list in this city of nearly 1,000 inhabitants almost miraculously small. Preliminary reports from Naples and its surrounding province indicated about 20 dead and probably several hundred injured.

BRAINERD 25 Years Ago

July 23, 1905

The weekly drill and exhibition run in the Brainerd fire department, inaugurated by Chief A. H. Bennett some time ago is proving both interesting and profitable. Last night the run was made down Fifth street and the hook and ladder boys were in it. They ran the ladders up on the Gardner block and the hose company ran the line of hose. Some prompt and efficient work was done.

Work was commenced this morning making some repairs about the hose house. The approach to the house is being torn up and a new one will be put down. Several other improvements will be made shortly on the exterior and interior of the building.

TO MASS 24,000 MEN AT NEW GUARD CAMP

Entire Military Forces of the Seventh Corps Area to be Concentrated at One Place

Plans are being made for the concentration of 91 units at the new guard camp north of Little Falls in 1932. This means a concentration of approximately 24,000 men during the encampment, bringing together for the first time in history, the entire military forces of the seventh corps area, embracing Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota and Nebraska.

The fact was made known by General Ellard A. Walsh, adjutant general of Minnesota, when addressing the personnel of the 205th Infantry, Minnesota National Guard at Lake City recently.

The first four days of the encampment at Lake City, which opened on Sunday, are being devoted to practice and the recording of firing on the range, with the various schools scheduled for the afternoon.

Sergeant George Schiedinger, Company I, of St. Cloud, Sergeant George C. Ramme, Company C of Rochester, and First Sergeant Arnold Kosce, Company B of Red Wing were honored by Adjutant General Walsh for long and faithful service.

WHERE DOES ART QUIT AND NUDITY MAKE ITS START?

By RALPH HEINZEN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Paris, July 23.—The International Postal union would like to know just where art lets off and nudity begins.

To observe the centennial of Goya, famous Spanish painter, the Spanish government issued a special set of postage stamps. On the three highest values, one, four and ten pesetas, enlarged to three times the normal size of a postage stamp, the artist, Sanchez Toda, stretched a languorous, sloe-eyed Latin brunette wholly unclad, a reproduction of Goya's celebrated painting of the Duchesse of Alba.

In art some nudes look even respectable. But hundreds and thousands of stamp users found this nude objectionable. Their letters of protest have been streaming into the offices of the postal union, which is at a loss about what to do.

Many of the complaints urge proceedings against the Spanish postal department for sending obscene matter through the mails. Others write that art which may be good in Latin countries is risqué in northern climes.

Some urge that a stamp-art censor be appointed, for a million or more children collect stamps.

Some asked the name of the model. There is no question Toda has succeeded in engraving a beautiful woman. But not content with showing a nude and turning her on what appears to be a silk covered divan and tucked a big silk pillow under her head and shoulders. The Toda brunette looks right out of the stamp with a cynical smile and her eyes seem to glow. The stamps are said to have a great success with collectors.

DULUTH'S HISTORIC HOSTELRY HAS FIRE LOSS ESTIMATED
AT $90,000

Duluth, Minn., July 23.—(UP)—The Spalding Hotel, Duluth's historic hotel, burned today with a loss estimated at $90,000.

Much of the five-story structure was gutted by fire and water. The radio station in the hotel, WEBC, and the historic bar room were destroyed completely.

Persons staying in the hotel were aroused by bell boys running through the corridors and telephone calls from the hotel switchboard.

None was reported to have been injured during the fire.

"Excuse me," said Judge Thomas

Greene, "but what is a metaphysician, and what does one do?"

Detective Cowles was silent. The bailiffs were silent. The Yogi was silent. A dictionary was brought and Judge Greene spent 15 minutes in communion with it. Then he looked up wearily.

"This case will have to be looked into," he said. "Continued until July 26."

ARMED POSSE SEARCHES FOR 2 NEGRO ASSAILANTS

Shreveport, La., July 23.—(UP)—An armed posse of 200 men today searched the woods around Greenwood village, ten miles east of here, for two negroes wanted on charges of slaying a storekeeper during a holdup.

C. J. Mason, 40, was shot to death last night by the negroes. After looting the cash register of a small sum of money, the bandits escaped on foot. Residents of the vicinity were joined by a large delegation of peace officers and citizens of Shreveport.

No trace of the killers had been found today. On the theory that they had not traveled far, the posse continued combing the territory around the Texas-Louisiana border today.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 23, 1930

Frank S. Gold

FRANK S. GOLD, a Minneapolis citizen, is a community worker who has many achievements to his credit and who in spite of all his work done for the public, retains his good humor and willingness to continue such labors. Mr. Gold is a born organizer and executive and when he takes up a project its success seems assured.

So it was highly proper that when Gerge D. LaBar, president of the First National Bank and chairman of the Rotary club community service committee, sought a speaker to take up the topic of service to a community, he selected Mr. Gold who talks about practical things accomplished and has no need to dwell on abstract theories.

Mr. LaBar referred to him as a most public spirited citizen, one who is interested in Crow Wing county and Brainerd too, for he acquired property in the county and spends his summers at the lakes. Mr. Gold is an associate member of Minneapolis Rotary club.

In his introduction to his talk, Mr. Gold referred to meeting Mr. and Mrs. LaBar while they were on a tour of Italy. In fact, they became closely acquainted on the occasion of an eventful afternoon when an automobile accident brought them close to serious injury.

Mr. Gold is identified with three activities, the American Automobile Association, the 10,000 Lakes Association and Scouting, and while he was conversing, the mayor of Minneapolis had appointed him to another public position, that of a member of the Minneapolis Civil Service Commission.

He is a veteran president of the Minneapolis association of the automobile organization. They have a beautiful clubhouse on the Minnesota river. The association favors a drivers license law and takes the stand that a drunken driver should be deprived of his license. They also favor a safety and responsibility law. Innocent persons are maimed or killed by irresponsible drivers who sometimes do not even own or but partially own the car they are driving.

Compulsory insurance has not been effective, as reckless drivers seem to grow more reckless when they know an insurance company will pay the bills.

Mr. Gold is hopeful that the two measures, the drivers license law and the safety and responsibility law proposed, will pass the legislature next term and counts on the aid of the country to supplement that of the large cities.

The 10,000 Lakes Association has been another pet project to be fostered by Mr. Gold. When Arthur L. Roberts resigned the leadership, Mr. Gold succeeded him. The tourist business of Minnesota has developed so rapidly that it now ranks third in value of activities carried on in the state. Computing the valuation on highway statistics and the ratio spent by tourists in other states, gives the tourist business of Minnesota an annual value of at least $87,000,000. This year the association has a fund of $75,000 to $80,000 to carry on its work.

Up to July this year 8,600 inquiries had been received on vacations in the state. Last year the total for the season numbered 10,000. Brainerd and Crow Wing county have been prompt and regular in their donations to the cause of getting publicity and business for the lake country. He referred to the late R. R. Wise of Brainerd who for several years was president of the lake association.

Mr. Gold paid a tribute to the value of scouting with which movement he has been associated for many years. His job is primarily to raise money to make the movement successful. The financial condition of the Minneapolis area is one to be envied. Bequests made ran up to a total of $200,000. Other codicils bring it up to a half million dollars fund.

He mentioned the growth of Minneapolis scouting and the purchase of the Isle of Pines in Bay Lake.

Last year Mr. Gold attended the Boy Scouts jamboree held in England. There were 50,000 boys under canvas from 45 different nations. It was a proud and patriotic sight to see the American contingent lead the parade.

The Rhythm of 1930

THE return of the long skirt is expected to have its effect on the manners of young women, says Vogue editorially. Once it had departed, young ladies became free, abrupt and even uncouth in deportment. They sprawled on the floor, hung a leg over the arm of a chair, hooked their toes around the legs of the chair and sat about with one foot tucked under. Such actions distressed those who were accustomed to graceful movements and close application to conventions. They lamented the short skirt as the cause of the departure from accepted manners.

Now the long skirt is back and it is expected to have its effect. A fashion writer says: Every decade has its rhythm. Every era moves to a different beat. The sixties floated on their billow of crinoline. The eighties bustled. The nineties romped. The pre-war period hobbled. The postwar shimmied and stamped to the frenzied beat of the Charleston. Now, there is a new roll of the drums of the ages. Saxophones have taken to cooler croonings; 1930 skims smooth and free. Gone are the pallid slink of the vamp, the lope of the jazzy, contorted dancing. If you are hollow-chested or plastically "cute," you are out of step with the tom-tom of the times. Wear the clothes of this year with the postures of last year and the result is confusion.

If the change in woman's fashions brings about the hoped for result, experts will have earned a blessing. And evidence will be added in support of the theory that clothes have a marked effect on personal conduct.

Minnesota a Haven

THE numerous bank robberies in Minnesota signify that the lawless element has found a haven within the state, says the New Ulm Journal. Conditions are most favorable for bandits to operate. There is no state constabulary, and by the time sheriffs and police officers in neighboring counties and cities are notified the bandits are lost in the maze of highways that furnish suitable avenues of escape. There will be no cessation in this banditry until a state constabulary, equipped with armored cars and machine guns, is organized to cope with the situation. Further, punishment must be drastic. Bring back the whipping post for certain classes of malefactors and immediately crime of this kind will decrease amazingly.

HEAVYWEIGHT FIGHT MORATORIUM NOW RULES IN AMERICA

PRIMO CARNERA SCHEDULED TO GO BACK TO EUROPE

MAX SCHMELING KEEPING HIS WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP SAFE IN GERMANY

PHIL SCOTT AND YOUNG STRIBLING TO DO THEIR ACT IN LONDON

By DIXON STEWART (United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, July 23.—With Primo Carnera definitely scheduled for a return trip to Europe, Max Schmeling keeping his world's championship safe in Germany, and Phil Scott and Willie Stribling billed to do their act in London, American boxing fans today looked forward to a welcome heavyweight fight moratorium.

The heavyweight program of recent months has produced such a plethora of fouls and unsatisfactory endings that Madison Square Garden officials doubt the advisability of staging another heavyweight attraction this season, and they are making plans for a program which will eliminate the matadors.

There is only one heavyweight attraction which would alter their program—a contest between Jack Sharkey and Vittorio Campolo, in whom the Garden has a financial interest. At present Sharkey is holding out for a $100,000 guarantee. Unless he comes to terms shortly and agrees to accept a percentage, the Garden's program for the balance of the summer will be: Aug. 7.—Jack (Kid) Berg vs. Kid Chocolate.

Sept. 11.—Young Jack Thompson vs. Jimmy McLarnin for the world's welterweight championship.

Sept. 25.—Al Singer vs. the winner of the Berg-Chocolate match, for the world's lightweight championship.

A great percentage of people are born with arms of unequal length and about 10 per cent have odd legs, declares a European scientist.

LEADERSHIP REGAINED PARTLY THROUGH CO-OPERATION OF NEW YORK GIANTS

LATTER HELD CHICAGO CUBS EVEN IN A DOUBLE-HEADER

(By United Press)
Brooklyn's Robins were back in the lead of the National League's pennant race today, with confidence strengthened by their success in remaining in the fight despite their worst slump of the season.

The Robins regained the lead yesterday, partly through the co-operation of the New York Giants, who held the Chicago Cubs even in a double-header, but largely through an unexpectedly brilliant performance by Hollis Thurston, "bull pen" pitcher.

Robinson's pitching staff was riddled by the slugging of the Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals during the past week and he gambled on Thurston to start the game. Thurston held St. Louis to 3 scratch hits and won his game, 1 to 0, only one Cardinal getting as far as second base.

A ninth inning rally which produced two runs gave the Chicago Cubs a 5 to 4 victory over New York in the first game of a double-header, but the Giants came back to win the seven-inning second game, 6 to 1.

Philadelphia defeated Pittsburgh, 11 to 5, in the only other National League game. Phil Collins pitched for the winners and led the attack with a pair of homers and a single.

George Uhle's pinch single in the eighth inning drove in two runs and gave Detroit a 6 to 5 triumph over the Athletics.

Dick Coffman pitched the St. Louis

Browns to their third consecutive win over Washington, 3 to 1.

Late inning rallies gave Cleveland two victories over New York, 6 to 5 and 10 to 8.

Errors gave Boston a 4 to 3 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Kansas City, Mo., July 23.—Fred Spurgeon, outfielder for the Kansas City Blues, yesterday took affairs in his own hands when the game with St. Paul reached the final frame tied 2 and 2, and clouted out a single to center which scored Sucee and brought a 3 to 2 victory. The win evened the series.

Louisville, Ky., July 23.—Two runs, collected in an eighth inning rally, gave Louisville a 7 to 5 victory over Columbus in the second game of the series. Jess Doyle allowed the Louisville club 15 safeties.

Toledo, O., July 23.—Making their seven hits good for seven runs, the Toledo Mud Hens won their second consecutive game from Indianapolis by a 7 to 2 score. Bunched hits brought in scores in the first, third, fourth and seventh innings. Connally allowed Indianapolis eight hits but kept them well scattered.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 23.—Minneapolis and Milwaukee split a double bill yesterday, the Millers taking the first game, 8 to 3, while the Brewers came back to win the nightcap 14 to 6. Four pitchers were used by Minneapolis in the second game but were unable to stop the hitting of the Brewers.

Cochet Facing Crisis

By HARDIN BURNLEY

DESPITE HIS RECENT LOSS TO ALLISON, HENRI HOPES TO WIN BOTH OF HIS CUP MATCHES!

SINCE the retirement of Rene Lacoste because of ill health, two years ago, his former team-mate on France's famous "Three Musketeers"—Henri Cochet—generally has been recognized as the world's best amateur tennis player. For the next few days that reputation will be at stake in the Davis Cup finals which will be played at Auteuil.

France is defending the Davis Cup which Lacoste, Cochet & Co. won from the United States in 1927 and successfully retained for the past two years.

At Wimbledon, a fortnight or so ago, the French stars wobbled and all but shot from the tennis heavens as "Bill" Tilden's sun arose again and dashing young Wilmer Allison humbled the hitherto all-conquering Cochet.

Of course, at this writing Tilden has announced he will not play with the U. S. Davis Cup team, a situation for which temperament and tea table governing tactics are largely responsible.

With or without Tilden, the U. S. team—inspired by its Wimbledon victories—looks as though it might retrieve the Davis Cup if George M. Lott, Jr., Johnny Doeg, Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn rise to the occasion en masse or in a majority of their matches.

To win, Uncle Sam will have to eliminate France's best in the singles, and that will mean Cochet unless he shows an utterly unexpected reversal of form.

Some very definite reports have come overseas that Jean Borotra is in better form than ever and that he may even outshine Cochet in the finals. At Wimbledon, Jean seemed better than Henri, and some will not be surprised at all if the popular "Bouncing Basque" headlines the final big act in the Davis Cup drama.

However, Cochet has that which real sport experts know as "class," and "class" never reveals itself so well as when its possessor needs it in a crisis.

Nevertheless, the Sport Bug believes Uncle Sam will soon start packing the Davis Cup for its return trip.

were Napoli, Benevento, Avellino, Foggia and Potenza (northern section). Those five provinces have a total area of 8,442 square miles and a population of 3,843,778. Melfi, a city of 12,000 in Potenza, was reported almost completely destroyed, with a preliminary estimate of 100 dead and 380 injured. Montecalvo Irpino, in Avellino, reported 50 dead and many injured. Other reports poured in from towns and cities all through the five provinces. The provinces of Compostasso, Matna and Bori also were affected.

The earthquake came at about 10 minutes after 1 A. M. Preceding the shock, two violent explosions occurred in the Sulphur Springs at Possuoli, on the Bay of Naples. Mud boiled out like a geyser. The director of the scientific office at Pozzuoli said the Sulphur Springs acted like a safety valve for the activity of Vesuvius.

Prof. Alessandro Malladra, director of the Vesuvian observatory, estimated the epicenter of the disturbance at 80 miles east of Naples exactly in the Sarno zone, so that the earthquake may be considered a repetition of the one in 1929, which centered there but did slight damage.

Religious services of thanksgiving for the escape of the city from greater damage will be held in the Naples cathedral and other churches this evening.

I was the first foreign correspondent to reach here. The city was in incredible disorder. Six-story apartment houses were split as though by a giant ax, exposing the living quarters of the routed families with their belongings left as they were.

It was almost incredible that the casualty list here had not been enormous. The upper floors of buildings along the Via Casanova were wrecked and the debris including roofs and chimneys, had crashed into the street where the frightened populace had gathered in thousands.

Beds hung suspended from the opened sides of buildings. Chairs and furniture, tumbled about in disorder, could be seen where the inhabitants had left them.

Police surrounded the most badly affected area while crowds hung on the outskirts, viewing the destruction with grief. Many buildings were ordered evacuated in the fear that they would collapse.

2 TOWNS ENTIRELY DESTROYED BY QUAKE

Naples, July 23.—It was reported today that the towns of Villanova and Montecalvo, both in the province of Avellino, were totally destroyed by the earthquake.

Eighty per cent of Villanova's population of 5,000 were reported killed, which would mean 4,000 dead.

The reports lacked official confirmation, however.

It was reported 300 were dead in Montecalvo. The town of Venosa in the province of Potenza also was reported almost entirely destroyed.

Vatican City, July 23.—News of the earthquake in southern Italy was transmitted to the pope early today through official sources, and was followed by telegrams from ecclesiastical authorities in the stricken districts. The pope expressed the deepest grief and anxiety, and asked for full details. He sent condolences and his blessings to the bishop of Melfi.

ENTHUSIASTIC letters about the Ford car arrive daily from every part of the world. The following is typical of a great number received.

"Just a word regarding our experience with the Model A Ford.

"We purchased the car January 7, 1929. In the first twelve months it was driven more than twenty-four thousand miles over all kinds of roads and in all kinds of weather, from the nearly impassable roads we had in the spring of 1929 through burning heat. Also through the heaviest of rainstorms where many cars were dead and had to sit on the roadside until they were dried out and pulled in, and through deep snow.

"The valves were ground at twenty thousand miles and apparently the car was running perfectly at that time, but some of the service men thought it would be advisable to grind them. Inspection of the motor at that time showed it to be in perfect condition.

"The only expense we have had is 75c for a shock absorber link and 50c for a new rubber for the windshield wiper.

"The car has given an average better than twenty miles to the gallon of gas. We are well pleased with the performance of the Model A Ford car and believe it is the most economical car there is on the market."

Thousands of other Ford owners report the same satisfactory service and economy of operation and up-keep. In comfort, safety, speed, power, beauty, reliability—in everything that goes to make a good automobile—the new Ford is a value far above the price you pay.

FOREST FIRES CAUSING DAMAGE

Forest Law Requires That Fires be Reported, Even Though Owner of Land Did Not Set It

MAN-CAUSED FIRES

In Practically Every Case Fires Could Have Been Prevented With a Little Precaution

With continued dry weather fire conditions are becoming more hazardous each day and even though it is unusually early in the season for fires, during the past ten days there has been some ten or a dozen fires reported into the local ranger's office here.

These fires, in most cases, were set by berry pickers who have carelessly knocked out their pipe ashes or tossed away their cigarette stubs. In some instances fishermen have left their camp-fires burning, careless burning of land clearing slash was the cause of others, while in still another, the wiring on a new car, set fire to the car, burned the garage and a hundred acres of beautiful green forest west of Pequot into a black charred desolation, burning into the roots, killing everything in its path.

Some of these fires have destroyed hay in the stack, threatened fields of ripe grain and still others have burned deep holes into the peat soil, requiring men hours of hot, tiresome labor in the smoke, trenching, carrying water or working with pump engines and force pumps, as conditions would permit.

In practically all cases these fires were man-caused and could have been prevented, with a little precaution. Even in some cases where fires were set unintentionally, had parties that knew of the fire burning, taken prompt action themselves, to extinguish the fire, or had they promptly reported it to the Forestry Department, little damage would have been caused.

It might be well to remember that the present state law makes it a misdemeanor for anyone to allow an unauthorized fire to burn on their premises, even though the owner of the land did not set the fire, the law requires that he make every effort to put it out and must make a report of it to the nearest Township Fire Warden or Ranger.

Fire reports in the Brainerd district may be made by telephone on a collect ticket to the Ranger's office in the City Hall, to the Forest Patrolmen stationed at Pequot, Pillager, Backus, Emily or Hillman, or to the local Township Fire Warden.

Swimming Instruction Given by Four Experts; Coach Dean Directs Basketball and Baseball

The fame of the Lake Hubert Minnesota Camps' excellent swimming, riflery program, horseback riding, sailing, canoeing and camping has spread to every corner of the United States during their 22 summers of successful operation. Each year a large number of states are represented at the Lake Hubert Camps.

During the present summer boys from 16 states, including two Canadian provinces, are enrolled in the three divisions, Camp Lincoln, Camp Lincoln Prep, Camp Lake Hubert, comprising the Lake Hubert Minnesota Camps. States represented at camp are: California, Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana, Texas, Iowa, Kansas, Oklahoma, South Dakota, North Dakota, Missouri, Nebraska, Florida, Kentucky and Alberta and Manitoba, Canada.

Each year campers continue to return from distant points in this country to enjoy the all inclusive camping program included in the Lake Hubert Camps' daily activity schedules.

The staff at Camp Lincoln for Boys and at Camp Lake Hubert for Girls is the main reason the camps rank among the finest in America.

Take swimming instruction at Camp Lincoln, for example, from:

Niels Thorpe, for 10 years swimming coach at the U. of Minnesota, a man who has developed a number of intercollegiate and national champions.

Lloyd Boyce, intermural aquatic director and assistant varsity coach at the U. of Minnesota.

Lewis Braden, swim director Central High School of Oklahoma City and former fancy diving champion.

E. H. Rawson, swim director at Baltimore City College, Baltimore, Md.

Directing the baseball and basketball program is E. S. Dean, head coach at Indiana University.

Every camper takes a two-day truck trip and tour through the iron mines of Minnesota and also one canoe trip.

Second and third year camp club members may take additional canoe trips, the Mississippi 200-mile canoe trip, or the 225-mile tour through Itasca State Park and Forest Reserve.

Flyer's Mother Dies

at Her Home in Kansas

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. H. D. Billings of Delphos, Kans. Death came as the result of heart attacks and a choking spell caused by a chicken bone becoming lodged in her throat.

She is survived by her husband and two sons, Edgion Blackwell Billings, of Delphos, and Voorhees Blackwell, a student in a military school in New Jersey.

Edison Billings is quite well known in Brainerd. He was in the hospital here for some time last summer after he and another aviator were hurt when their plane crashed near Rice Lake, and his mother came to see him, and visited with Mrs. E. P. Slipp.

ARLENE HAGBERG IN LEAD BY 200 VOTES

Passes Laura Racine Today by Slight Margin in Race for Title of Miss Brainerd

DORIS GEIST, THIRD

Race Close as Leading Contestants Near 100,000 Mark With Eight Days to go

As the leading contests in the Publix-Daily Dispatch most popular girl contest zoomed along toward the 100,000 mark today Arlene Hagberg swept into the lead, holding a scant margin of 200 votes over Laura Racine as the Dispatch went to press late this afternoon.

Laura Racine went into the lead Monday and held a slight margin yesterday but could not withstand the stampede of votes for Arlene Hagberg last night. Arlene Hagberg held the lead last Saturday but the backers of Laura Racine sent her into the lead and Doris Geist was second with Arlene Hagberg third. Yesterday Laura Racine still held the lead but Arlene Hagberg had forced Doris Geist from second place to third.

Doris Geist and Cleo Mayo continued to hold a firm grip on third and fourth places and friends of theirs declare that they have an excellent chance to win. In fact it still looks like anybody's race yet.

The contest will close in eight days, at 11 o'clock on the evening of July 31. And so it is just eight days until some girl will be named "Miss Brainerd" and will be awarded a free trip by rail and steamer from Minneapolis to Alaska. Think of it, a wonderful two week's trip to Alaska with all expenses paid!

A CENTRAL AMERICAN MOUNTAIN COFFEE FAZENDA-In the tiny districts shown on the map grow rare flavored coffees that procure prominence unequalled. Primitive carts bring these coffees to market.

A rare tang and mellow richness unlike any known before... For people who want something different in coffee

IF YOU'RE tired of ordinary coffee—a coffee that's "indifferently" good—try a new coffee. One that's really different. Try one whose flavor comes from the mountains of Central America.

In certain tiny districts along the West Coast of Central America are grown coffees with probably the choicest flavor known today.

They have a piquant tang, and full-bodied richness that experts concede are not duplicated anywhere else in the world.

No one can tell you how good it is. We leave that for your own taste to decide.

Years ago, this coffee was first served in the famous Bohemian restaurants of San Francisco where it was brought by Folger. Travellers tasting it there spread its fame. From all parts of the world they wrote back for shipments. For that was the only way it could be obtained. Today, however,

your grocer has it packed in flavor-tight vacuum tins.

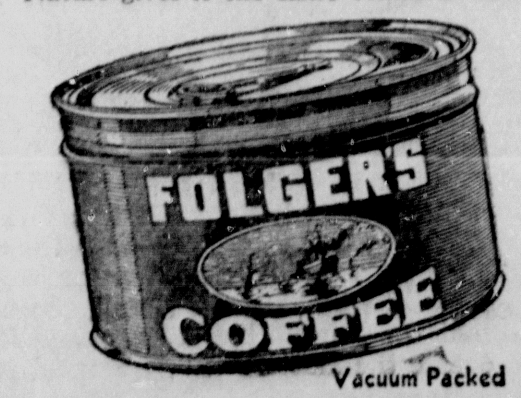

Why Most Coffees Taste Alike

Ordinarily you note little real difference when you change from one brand of coffee to another. That is because over 70 per cent of all the coffee entering the United States comes from one common region—where Nature gives it the same common taste.

They have a piquant tang, and full-bodied richness that experts concede are not duplicated anywhere else in the world.

No one can tell you how good it is. We leave that for your own taste to decide.

Years ago, this coffee was first served in the famous Bohemian restaurants of San Francisco where it was brought by Folger. Travellers tasting it there spread its fame. From all parts of the world they wrote back for shipments. For that was the only way it could be obtained. Today, however,

It's a different type of coffee that makes Folger flavor different. Rare Central American coffees—mountain grown.

You will realize that this is no ordinary coffee with the very first rush of fragrance that comes with the opening of the tin.

The Flavor Test

Because Folger flavor is so distinctly different, we make an unusual offer. Buy a pound of this coffee today. Drink it tomorrow morning. Next morning drink the coffee you have been using. The third morning serve Folger's again. If for any reason you do not choose Folger's your grocer will gladly refund the full price. We'll pay him. That's fair, isn't it? Why not try it today?

"WHERE'S EMILY?"

by CAROLYN WELLS

CHAPTER XXV.

SAYRE moved restlessly and laid down his fork. The others made pretense of eating, but soon gave it up.

With one impulse they rose from the table and went out on the terrace, where Prall brought coffee to them.

Abel Collins took Lawlor into Aunt Judy's little sitting room, which was secluded and safe from interruption.

"Now," said Abel, when the two men were seated, "all the cards on the table, please. Miss Duane is my godchild, and though her fortune is in the hands of trustees, I am the one most responsible for her personal welfare. What is your exact errand here?"

"All the cards on the table it is," agreed Lawlor. "I am here to make inquiries. You must not take it amiss, for it is in the line of police duty, and we have no choice in the matter. We must investigate."

"Yes, of course," Collins spoke heavily; he did not hanker after this investigation. Who could tell whether an investigation of the case of Emily Duane might lead?

"Well, now, Mr. Collins, as man to man, if you found a dead woman, and lying beside her a fur tippet and a few diamonds that belonged to another woman, wouldn't you make inquiries? As man to man now, wouldn't you?"

"Lawlor," and Abel's blue eyes gazed at him, "I can't carry on this talk as man to man. You're the investigator, you're the inquisitor, but I'm only anxious to protect my little girl from this base, this outrageous calumny. Oh, I know you're honest enough in your suspicions and doubts, but Emily Duane couldn't have done this thing you imply—for I suppose you are implying—all cards on the table?"

"On the table it is. Well, then, sir, the chief thinks—and I think, that it might be that Miss Duane and Mrs. Pennington had a sort of tiff, and of course, they didn't fight, as men would, but there might have been a pull-about, push-about sort of time, and Mrs. Pennington went over, grabbing Miss Duane's neck chain and tippet as she went. Then, you see, Miss Duane being frightened, ran away."

"Like Little Miss Muffet," said Abel without a smile, for his mind was merely working subconsciously and his speech was automatic.

"Now, look here, Lawlor," he said, after a moment, "why not just as well say that there was a tiff—or was not, either way—but that Mrs. Pennington herself stepped a little too near the edge of the bridge, and Miss Duane tried to grab her back as she went over. Miss Duane, not being strong enough, Mrs. Pennington fell, grabbing, as you say, at the fur and the necklace of her would-be rescuer?"

"Very good," said Lawlor, looking compassionately at Abel's earnest face, "very good, but in that case, why didn't Miss Duane scream for help, or run home and tell the tale?"

"We here, don't think Miss Duane disappeared voluntarily," and Abel drew himself up with dignity.

"Uh-huh? Well, we do. Now Mr. Collins, I'm right-down sorry for you, and sorry for all the folks in this house, but gotta do my duty. First off, I'm ordered to ask certain questions of Mrs. Bell, or of the servants here. Then, I've orders to search Miss Duane's rooms."

"But her rooms are the whole house—she owns it all."

"Shucks! You know what I mean. Her room, booderoo or whatever, where she keeps her mash notes and sweetie pictures. Her diary, if she has one, and all that sort of thing."

"Oh, pshaw, Lawlor, you're 'way off. Miss Duane is not that sort of girl."

"All girls are the same sort. I didn't say there was any harm in these letters and things, did I? But a man of your age must know that when we set out to do this business we've got to do it. He also knew that he could save it off no longer, and the matter must come to a crisis."

"Very well," he said, and rang the bell.

"Prall came."

"Prall," said Abel Collins, "take Mr. Lawlor to Miss Emily's rooms. Let him make such search as he wishes, and then bring him back to me."

The astute Abel had had a fair notion that Mrs. Juliana Bell would already have performed such sins of omission as she saw fit in Emily's rooms, and he concluded not to trouble her further in the matter.

So Prall solemnly conducted the

Deftly she slipped a pile of papers into a drawer and pushed it shut.

police detective to the rooms of Emily Duane.

Though not an uncouth or unkempt man, Lawlor looked about as much out of place as Christopher Sly in the bedchamber of the nameless lord.

He glanced round Emily's boudoir, which was done up that year in palest draperies of yellow and pink and mauve, with gilded furniture.

He stepped gingerly on the fair, soft rugs, but duty is duty, and setting his teeth, Lawlor went to work.

Even more than by the dainty trappings was the detective han-

He was a well-meaning sort and a most kind-hearted man. He had daughters of his own, and he wished no harm to Emily Duane, but he most fervently wished this Lorelei-like young woman and that staring wooden soldier of a butler at the top of the North Pole or the bottom of the North Sea, he didn't care which.

Nor was he set more at ease when he caught sight in a mirror of a slight wink on Betty's part, and the merest fractional part of a nod from Prall.

(To Be Continued Tomorrow.)

BABIES SCRAMBLED

Mrs. Johanna Bamberger and Baby Bamberger—or is it Baby Watkins? (left) and Mrs. Margaret Watkins and Baby Watkins—or perhaps Baby Bamberger—discuss their babies' identity with Dr. Arnold Kegel, Chicago health commissioner, after blood tests failed to settle the fathers' doubts. All this comes about because the family physicians of the two Chicago mothers expressed the belief that the infants had been mixed in a Chicago hospital. Experts have been called in to decide the matter.

GERMAN BRIDGE CRASH FATAL TO 38

CROWDED WITH MERRYMAKERS, CITY OF COBLENZ

WEAKENED AND CONDEMNED BRIDGE COULD NOT CARRY OVERLOAD

JOY OF RHINELAND LIBERATION TURNED TO SORROW BY TRAGEDY

Coblentz, Germany, July 23.—(U.P.)—A weakened and condemned iron bridge crowded with holiday-makers watching the Rhineland liberation celebration here last night, collapsed and carried more than 100 men, women and children into the Moselle river.

The governor of the Coblentz district announced a corrected official death list of 38 today. Sixteen were badly injured and 25 or more of the others were suffering from submersion and shock. Previously the governor had announced 52 dead, but 14 missing persons were discovered alive.

The joy of the Rhineland, in the midst of its jubilant celebration of its freedom from allied occupation, was turned to sorrow by the tragedy. President Paul Von Hindenburg, who had been making a triumphant tour of the liberated regions, broke off his trip and returned to Berlin. Before leaving, he contributed 10,000 marks to start a relief fund and attended memorial services in the Coblentz town hall. Dazed mourners passed in file before the array of coffins.

Coblentz, Germany, July 23.—An official announcement today said 38 persons were known dead in the collapse of a condemned iron bridge during a Rhineland liberation celebration last night.

Numerous other persons who had joined in the celebrations still were missing from their homes, the announcement said, and it was feared they, too, had been plunged into the Moselle river when the bridge fell.

Grief replaced the exultation of the liberated territory as firemen dragged the deep waters expecting to find other bodies. It was believed more than 100 people had collected on the forbidden structure for a last glimpse of the brilliant fireworks marking Coblentz's farewell to President Paul Von Hindenburg. Only 27 persons were brought out alive, most of them severely injured.

The bridge collapsed without warning near the end of a gala day in the Coblentz territory. A fireworks display was held in Ehrenbreitstein last evening to conclude the day's program. As merry-makers walked homeward, many of them paused on the bridge for one last look.

Others joined them until the old bridge, which long before had been closed to the public, broke under their weight and dropped them screaming and kicking into 20 feet of water.

Most of those who had been on the bridge were girls between the ages of 16 and 20, and many others who knew their daughters had gone to Ehrenbreitstein to watch the fireworks, wept and wrung their hands as they watched the slow rescue work. Only a few of the victims were men.

President Paul Von Hindenburg, who had taken an active part in the daylight celebrations at Coblentz as part of his tour of the Rhineland territory, cancelled his scheduled visits to Treves and Aix-La-Chapelle when he was informed of the disaster this morning.

As the grieving crowd stood along the banks of the Moselle, Coblentz, unaware of the tragedy, continued its merry-making in saloons, restaurants and in the streets. It was only when police ordered all saloons closed immediately that the news spread here. Saloons previously were authorized to remain open all night.

Immediately the celebrants in the city hurried to the scene, and flags throughout the city went to half mast. The noise of laughter and music faded gradually away as the news reached to the most remote part of the city, and by midnight Coblentz was hushed.

Hot, Dry Weather Causes Damage to Spring Wheat

Washington, July 23.—(U.P.)—Hot, dry weather has caused serious damage to the spring wheat crop in many parts of the wheat belt, the agriculture department reported today in its weekly weather and crop bulletin. Rains also are badly needed for corn, and the crop already has deteriorated generally.

"Rain is seriously needed throughout the spring wheat belt," the bulletin said, "including many Rocky mountain sections."

8 MASTER MINDS OF SCIENCE TO SETTLE PARENTAGE

Chicago, July 23.—(U.P.)—It was up to eight master minds of science today to settle once and for all the parentage of babies Bamberger and Watkins.

The verdict of the scientists, which will clear up scientifically at any rate, whether Mr. and Mrs. William Watkins and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bamberger will have to trade babies three weeks after birth, probably will be delayed until tomorrow, it appeared today as the "jury" still pondered over data obtained in a day of examinations.

DETERMINED TO CURB WAVE OF BANK BANDITRY

NETTED ROBBERS OVER $200,000 IN 3 MIDWESTERN STATES

BANKING ASSOCIATIONS OF MINNESOTA AND DAKOTA TAKE ACTION

Minneapolis, Minn., July 23.—(U.P.)—Determined to curb the wave of northwest bank holdups that have netted more than $200,000 this summer, officers of banking associations of Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota met today in special executive session.

Means of discouraging bank banditry in these three northwest states were discussed in a secret session this afternoon. The meeting was held in the Minnesota Bankers' Association offices.

George Susens, secretary of the Minnesota association, called the meeting. He said bankers had decided on the necessity of the action after the $67,000 robbery at the bank of Willmar last week. Bankers, he said, believed a bandit syndicate was responsible for the holdups.

Publicity will not be given the plans adopted by the bankers, Susens said, because they did not propose to give the bandits any advance information. Proposals which were understood to be under discussion at the meeting included:

1. Establishment of better communication between bankers' protective associations.
2. Improvement in police methods affecting bank holdups.
3. Closer co-operation between bankers, police and citizens.
4. Proposal of legislation imposing stricter penalties for conviction in bank robberies or attempted bank robberies.

Bankers reported that the costs of protective insurance in the northwest had jumped from $1.50 per $1,000 a year to $5 since the recent wave of holdups.

BODY OF PREACHER FOUND IN THE HILLS

REV. THOS. W. HOWARD, OF MINNESOTA, MET DEATH NEAR TUCSON, ARIZ.

Tucson, Ariz., July 23.—(U.P.)—The body of the Rev. Thomas W. Howard, 74, Minnesota circuit rider, who wandered away from his home here June 7, was found late yesterday in the mountains four miles west of Tucson.

Rev. Howard was believed to have fallen exhausted in the heat wave during the first part of June. Posses, including Indian trail riders, searched desert lands and mountain regions for weeks in an effort to locate him.

The minister's son, a Wheaton, Minn., newspaperman, came here and appealed to Governor John C. Phillips to call out national guard airplanes to aid in the search.

MIKE, FOX TERRIER VOICED PARROT, IS CRAFTY BIRD

Mendota, Minn., July 23.—(U.P.)—Mike, the fox terrier voiced parrot, apparently had a perfect tip-off system. Mike was still in seclusion 24 hours after his owner, Arnold Hillesheim, consented to "shoot to kill" orders. Mike escaped to the farm of Walter Sell when Hillesheim and a group of four friends spent a day in vain search for the bird. Yesterday Hillesheim in desperation allowed Sell the right to shoot. But then Mike vanished.

Washington State Asks I. C. C. to Reopen Proceedings on Proposed G. N.-N. P. Merger

SIMILAR ACTION IS REQUESTED BY MONTANA, MINN.

WASHINGTON SAYS CONSOLIDATION FAILED TO CONSIDER EFFECT ON EMPLOYEES

MONTANA ALSO ENDORSED THE BRIEF FILED BY STATE OF MINNESOTA

Washington, July 23.—(U.P.)—The department of public works of Washington state petitioned the interstate commerce commission today to reopen proceedings on the consolidation of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads.

Similar action also has been requested by Montana and Minnesota utilities commissions.

In its petition the Washington public works department said it subscribed to the belief of the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission, which requested the reopening on the ground the commission failed to take into account the effect of the consolidation on the employees of the two roads.

Montana endorsed the Minnesota brief in its petition. Montana also contended the large body of citizens of the state were denied the right to present their interests and rights in the issues involved in the consolidation.

Washington, July 23.—The interstate commerce commission refused yesterday to reopen its railway consolidation proceedings, under which it announced last December 9 an elaborate and comprehensive plan for merger of the country's railroads into 19 systems.

Body of James Eads How, 'Millionaire Hobo,' is to be Cremated

Washington, July 23.—(U.P.)—The body of James Eads How, who during most of his life earned riches to seek the companionship of hoboes, was brought today from Staunton, Va., for cremation in accordance with his last wishes.

The "millionaire hobo" died yesterday in Staunton of pneumonia, "evidently superinduced by starvation," physicians said. He died a few hours after entering the hospital in a weakened condition which was due partly to irregular eating.

Early in life How elected to seek the society of tramps and he acted as chairman at nearly all the hobo conventions.

John L. Lewis Convicted of Contempt of Court

Springfield, Ill., July 23.—(U.P.)—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, was convicted of contempt of court by Judge Charles G. Briggie today and fined $500.

Forteen associates of Lewis also were convicted of contempt but were not punished.

'DEATH VALLEY SCOTTY' STRONG ON BASEBALL

Tonopah, Nev., July 23.—(U.P.)—"Death Valley Scotty," who has gained much publicity by his frequent bids for fame, has adopted baseball as his latest fad.

Scotty announced today that he had organized a team and would match it Sunday against the Tonopah Muckers. In order to encourage home runs he said he would present a $100 bill for every circuit clout.

"My team is composed of raw material now," Scotty said. "But wait until I show them the tricks I know and whip them into shape. Why, every big league scout in the country will be trying to take my men away from me."

3 BANDITS WHO ROBBED HARTFORD BANK, TRAILED

ESCAPED AFTER ROBBING WISCONSIN TOWN BANK OF $85,000

STATE-WIDE SEARCH UNDER WAY. CENTERS ON WOODED RESORT SECTIONS

Hartford, Wis., July 23.—(U.P.)—Three men who held up the First National bank of Hartford and escaped with $85,000 after hitting the cashier with a pistol were the object of a state-wide police search today.

Deputies centered their activities in heavily wooded resort sections near here, but the hunt also was extended to Milwaukee and other sections.

Offers of $1,500 reward for capture of the bandits alive or double that amount for killing them caused many to join the search. Sheriff Theodore Holtebeck of Washington county went to Milwaukee to enlist aid of police there.

The sheriff disclosed that suspicion was directed there because a letter with a Milwaukee postmark sent in care of general delivery was claimed shortly before the robbery by a man who answered the description of one of the bandits.

Five bank employees, including Cashier Roy W. Bailey, were in the bank when the bandits entered yesterday. There also were two customers. Bailey was injured when struck on the head with the butt of a pistol.

INDICTED MEN OF MOTORS PARTS CO. FACE ARREST

FEDERAL AUTHORITIES BRING TOTAL ON ARREST OR ON BOND TO 12

OFFICIALS AND SALESMEN INCLUDED IN THOSE INDICTED IN DIAMOND MOTORS PARTS CO.

St. Paul, July 23.—(U.P.)—Starting a new drive to arrest indicted officials and salesmen of the Diamond Motors Parts Co., St. Paul, federal authorities today brought the total under arrest or on bond to 12.

Eight new arrests were made in Chicago and Detroit yesterday, M. F. Kinkead, assistant U. S. district attorney reported.

Many of those arrested had been in touch with the authorities for some time. Difficulties about adjusting their bonds had prevented their earlier surrender, it was said.

Most of the salesmen and officers posted bonds and were released immediately. Those arrested in Chicago included Elmer Smith, former Vice President Charles Fried, L. J. Ascher, J. J. Egan, A. J. Sugar and S. N. Bernstein, all former salesmen. In Detroit, H. W. Carlisle, former salesman and Vernon Schlieder, former secretary-treasurer were arrested.

Bond of $7,500 was posted by Smith and $5,000 by Carlisle and Schlieder. The others were required to furnish $1,500 bond.

Others indicted on mail fraud charges in connection with the concern who have already been arrested include George Bouthinson, former president, Frank B. Moxham, M. M. Nafdin and H. J. Himmelstein.

PREDICTS WORLD MAY EXPECT MORE SEVERE QUAKES

New York, July 23.—(U.P.)—The world may expect a series of severe earthquakes in the next few months, according to Rev. Joseph Lynch, in charge of the seismograph at Fordham university.

Father Lynch explained that no earthquakes of importance were registered between November and May, which is very unusual and added that "when none occur for a period of six months, we can expect that in the following period there will be quite a number of unusual force."

GLENN CURTISS, AVIATION PIONEER, PASSES AWAY

DIED FROM A BLOOD CLOT ON LUNG DISCOVERED AFTER OPERATION

20 YEARS AGO HE STARTLED THE WORLD, FLYING FROM ALBANY TO NEW YORK

Buffalo, N. Y., July 23.—(U.P.)—Glenn Curtiss, one of aviation's pioneers, died today from a blood clot on the lung discovered after a recent appendicitis operation.

The aviation pioneer—who 20 years ago startled the world by making a flight from Albany to New York City—was brought to a Buffalo hospital a little more than a week ago suffering from appendicitis. An immediate operation was ordered.

The operation, doctors said, was successful. Afterward, however, the clot touching upon the lung was found. This brought his death at a local hospital today.

Curtiss' death was so unexpected that Mrs. Curtiss, who had been keeping an almost constant vigil at his bedside, was at a downtown hotel. Only his nurse was with him.

PLANE NOSES OVER, PILOT IS INJURED

R. A. HOSTER A CONTESTANT IN THE ALL-AMERICAN AIR DERBY

Lunken Airport, Cincinnati, O., July 23.—(U.P.)—Pilot R. A. Hoster of Detroit, contestant in the All-American Air Derby, was injured today when his Simplex plane nosed over as the 12 ships remaining in the race took off on the fourth lap for Little Rock, Ark.

Hoster's injuries were not immediately determined. He shot away from the starting tape with his motors wide open but the ship apparently refused to respond to her rudder and nosed over after Hoster sped down the runway for 3,000 yards.

Hoster was able to climb from the wreckage but was badly shaken and was removed to a hospital. The plane was demolished.

WARFARE OVER LINGLE MURDER

CHICAGO TRIBUNE AND CHICAGO HERALD AND EXAMINER NEAR LEGAL BATTLE

Chicago, July 23.—(U.P.)—Newspaper warfare between the Chicago Tribune and the Chicago Herald and Examiner over the Lingle murder case investigation threatened today to engage the two papers in a bitter legal battle.

Notice of a $250,000 libel suit against the Herald and Examiner by Robert M. Lee, city editor of the Tribune, was on file today.

Lee charged the Lingle case editorial carried yesterday on the front page of the Herald and Examiner under the heading, "Who Killed Lingle and Why?" implied he knew that Alfred Lingle, Tribune reporter, was engaged in gangland rackets.

Under the same banner line, "Who Killed Lingle and Why?" the Herald and Examiner made its reply today.

"No such suggestion by implication or in any other form appeared in the editorial, and the astonishing thought came practically out of the blue," the Herald and Examiner said.

LIGHTNING AND THUNDER HEADS FIRST BIG SHOCK

APPALLING REPORTS OF DEATH AND RUIN FROM MANY CITIES

RESCUE WORKERS HAMPERED BY DARKNESS, ALL LIGHTS SHAKEN OUT

Naples, Italy, July 23.—(U.P.)—The widespread devastation left by an earthquake which rocked southern Italy shortly after midnight was revealed today in appalling reports of death and ruin from many cities.

Report received here until shortly before noon listed 270 persons dead and 618 injured in eight cities in middle Italy. One hundred were officially reported dead at Melfi, Capitanata district, where virtually the entire city was demolished. The search for bodies continued there.

Early incomplete death tolls in other cities most seriously affected by the earthquake were:

Naples, 10; Ribolla, 20; Rio Nero, 11; Atella, 6; Mercato San Sezerio, 2; Buonabergo, 3; and Oseoto, 2.

Relief was hampered in Naples and many other cities during the night's darkness by the absence of electric lights, worked more rapidly with coming of daybreak, removing the dead and injured from the debris. Rescue work still was in its early stages, however.

Araldo Crollalanza, Italian minister of public works, hurried to Rome to supervise relief measures. He was at the watering place, Mont De Cabini, near Florence, when the earthquake struck.

Under-Secretary of Public Works Leoni already was enroute to the stricken area.

Premier Mussolini ordered Senator Filippo Cremonesi, head of the Italian Red Cross, to organize relief for the stricken area immediately.

The quake struck Naples, 27½ miles from the epicenter, at 1:06 A. M. Lightning, accompanied by heavy rumblings resembling thunder, preceded the first and most violent shock, which lasted 42 seconds. It was followed by two lighter and shorter shocks which drove inhabitants from their homes in terror.

The city was plunged in darkness, since the three shocks broke all electric cables, and troops were commanded to preserve order and prevent plundering.

Virtually every building in the slum section of Naples was cracked and many collapsed. The so-called Casanova bridge here was broken and the seismographical instrument in the Vesuvius observatory were put out of order.

Melfi, 76 miles east of Naples and on the basis of early reports apparently the worst sufferer, was virtually destroyed. The town has a population of approximately 12,000 persons, and is built on the volcanic peak, Monte Vulture.

Rome, July 23.—A new earth shock was registered in Naples at 6:35 A. M. today.

The stricken zone stretched due east from Naples across southern Italy, centering north of the instep of the "boot."

As reports continued to come in, the casualty list grew hourly. The province of Avellino appeared to have been badly stricken, with probably 100 or more dead and an unestimated number of injured.

Heavy casualties also were reported from the provinces of Foggia, Benevento and Naples.

WIDE AREA OF ITALY DEVASTATED

By THOMAS B. MORGAN (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Naples, July 23.—A wide area of southern Italy was devastated early today by an earthquake that extended from Naples on the Mediterranean side to the province of Foggia on the Adriatic, spreading death and devastation over several thousand square miles.

Reports of casualties poured in steadily over disrupted communication lines from the stricken area, indicating a death list of hundreds, with more than a thousand injured.

Incomplete official lists this afternoon showed more than 270 dead and about 1,000 injured.

The United Press correspondent reached Naples from Rome to find the city in confusion, but with the death list in this city of nearly 1,000,000 inhabitants almost miraculously small. Preliminary reports from Naples and its surrounding province indicated about 20 dead and probably several hundred injured.

TO MASS 24,000 MEN AT NEW GUARD CAMP

Entire Military Forces of the Seventh Corps Area to be Concentrated at One Place

Plans are being made for the concentration of 91 units at the new guard camp north of Little Falls in 1932. This means a concentration of approximately 24,000 men during the encampment, bringing together for the first time in history, the entire military forces of the seventh corps area, embracing Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota and Nebraska.

The fact was made known by General Ellard A. Walsh, adjutant general of Minnesota, when addressing the personnel of the 205th Infantry, Minnesota National Guard at Lake City recently.

The first four days of the encampment at Lake City, which opened on Sunday, are being devoted to practice and the recording of firing on the range, with the various schools scheduled for the afternoon.

Sergeant George Schiedinger, Company I, of St. Cloud, Sergeant George C. Ramme, Company C of Rochester, and First Sergeant Arnold Kosec, Company B of Red Wing were honored by Adjutant General Walsh for long and faithful service.

WHERE DOES ART QUIT AND NUDITY MAKE ITS START?

By RALPH HEINZEN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Paris, July 23.—The International Postal union would like to know just where art lets off and nudity begins. To observe the centennial of Goya, famous Spanish painter, the Spanish government issued a special set of postage stamps. On the three highest values, one, four and ten pesetas, enlarged to three times the normal size of a postage stamp, the artist, Sanchez Toda, stretched a languorous, sloe-eyed Latin brunette wholly unclad, a reproduction of Goya's celebrated painting of the Duchesse of Alba. In art some nudes look even respectable. But hundreds and thousands of stamp users found this nude objectionable. Their letters of protest have been streaming into the offices of the postal union, which is at a loss about what to do.

Many of the complaints urge proceedings against the Spanish postal department for sending obscene matter through the mails. Others write that art which may be good in Latin countries is risqué in northern climes. Some urge that a stamp-art censor be appointed, for a million or more children collect stamps.

Some asked the name of the model. There is no question Toda has succeeded in engraving a beautiful woman. But not content with showing a nude, and turning her on what appears to be a silk covered divan and tucked a big silk pillow under her head and shoulders. The Toda brunette looks right out of the stamp with a cynical smile and her eyes seem to glow. The stamps are said to have a great success with collectors.

ARMED POSSE SEARCHES FOR 2 NEGRO ASSAILANTS

Shreveport, La., July 23.—(UP)—An armed posse of 200 men today searched the woods around Greenwood village, ten miles east of here, for two negroes wanted on charges of slaying a storekeeper during a holdup.

C. J. Mason, 40, was shot to death last night by the negroes. After looting the cash register of a small sum of money, the bandits escaped on foot. Residents of the vicinity were joined by a large delegation of peace officers and citizens of Shreveport.

No trace of the killers had been found today. On the theory that they had not traveled far, the posse continued combing the territory around the Texas-Louisiana border today.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 23, 1930

Frank S. Gold

FRANK S. GOLD, a Minneapolis citizen, is a community worker who has many achievements to his credit and who in spite of all his work done for the public, retains his good humor and willingness to continue such labors. Mr. Gold is a born organizer and executive and when he takes up a project its success seems assured.

So it was highly proper that when Gerge D. LaBar, president of the First National Bank and chairman of the Rotary club community service committee, sought a speaker to take up the topic of service to a community, he selected Mr. Gold who talks about practical things accomplished and has no need to dwell on abstract theories.

Mr. LaBar referred to him as a most public spirited citizen, one who is interested in Crow Wing county and Brainerd too, for he acquired property in the county and spends his summers at the lakes. Mr. Gold is an associate member of Minneapolis Rotary club.

In his introduction to his talk, Mr. Gold referred to meeting Mr. and Mrs. LaBar while they were on a tour of Italy. In fact, they became closely acquainted on the occasion of an eventful afternoon when an automobile accident brought them close to serious injury.

Mr. Gold is identified with three activities, the American Automobile Association, the 10,000 Lakes Association and Scouting, and while he was conversing, the mayor of Minneapolis had appointed him to another public position, that of a member of the Minneapolis Civil Service Commission.

He is a veteran president of the Minneapolis association of the automobile organization. They have a beautiful clubhouse on the Minnesota river. The association favors a drivers license law and takes the stand that a drunken driver should be deprived of his license. They also favor a safety and responsibility law. Innocent persons are maimed or killed by irresponsible drivers who sometimes do not even own or but partially own the car they are driving.

Compulsory insurance has not been effective, as reckless drivers seem to grow more reckless when they know an insurance company will pay the bills.

Mr. Gold is hopeful that the two measures, the drivers license law and the safety and responsibility law proposed, will pass the legislature next term and counts on the aid of the country to supplement that of the large cities.

The 10,000 Lakes Association has been another pet project to be fostered by Mr. Gold. When Arthur L. Roberts resigned the leadership, Mr. Gold succeeded him. The tourist business of Minnesota has developed so rapidly that it now ranks third in value of activities carried on in the state. Computing the valuation on highway statistics and the ratio spent by tourists in other states, gives the tourist business of Minnesota an annual value of at least $87,000,000. This year the association has a fund of $75,000 to $80,000 to carry on its work.

Up to July this year 8,600 inquiries had been received on vacations in the state. Last year the total for the season numbered 10,000. Brainerd and Crow Wing county have been prompt and regular in their donations to the cause of getting publicity and business for the lake country. He referred to the late R. R. Wise of Brainerd who for several years was president of the lake association.

Mr. Gold paid a tribute to the value of scouting with which movement he has been associated for many years. His job is primarily to raise money to make the movement successful. The financial condition of the Minneapolis area is one to be envied. Bequests made ran up to a total of $200,000. Other codicils bring it up to a half million dollars fund.

He mentioned the growth of Minneapolis scouting and the purchase of the Isle of Pines in Bay Lake.

Last year Mr. Gold attended the Boy Scouts jamboree held in England. There were 50,000 boys under canvas from 45 different nations. It was a proud and patriotic sight to see the American contingent lead the parade.

The Rhythm of 1930

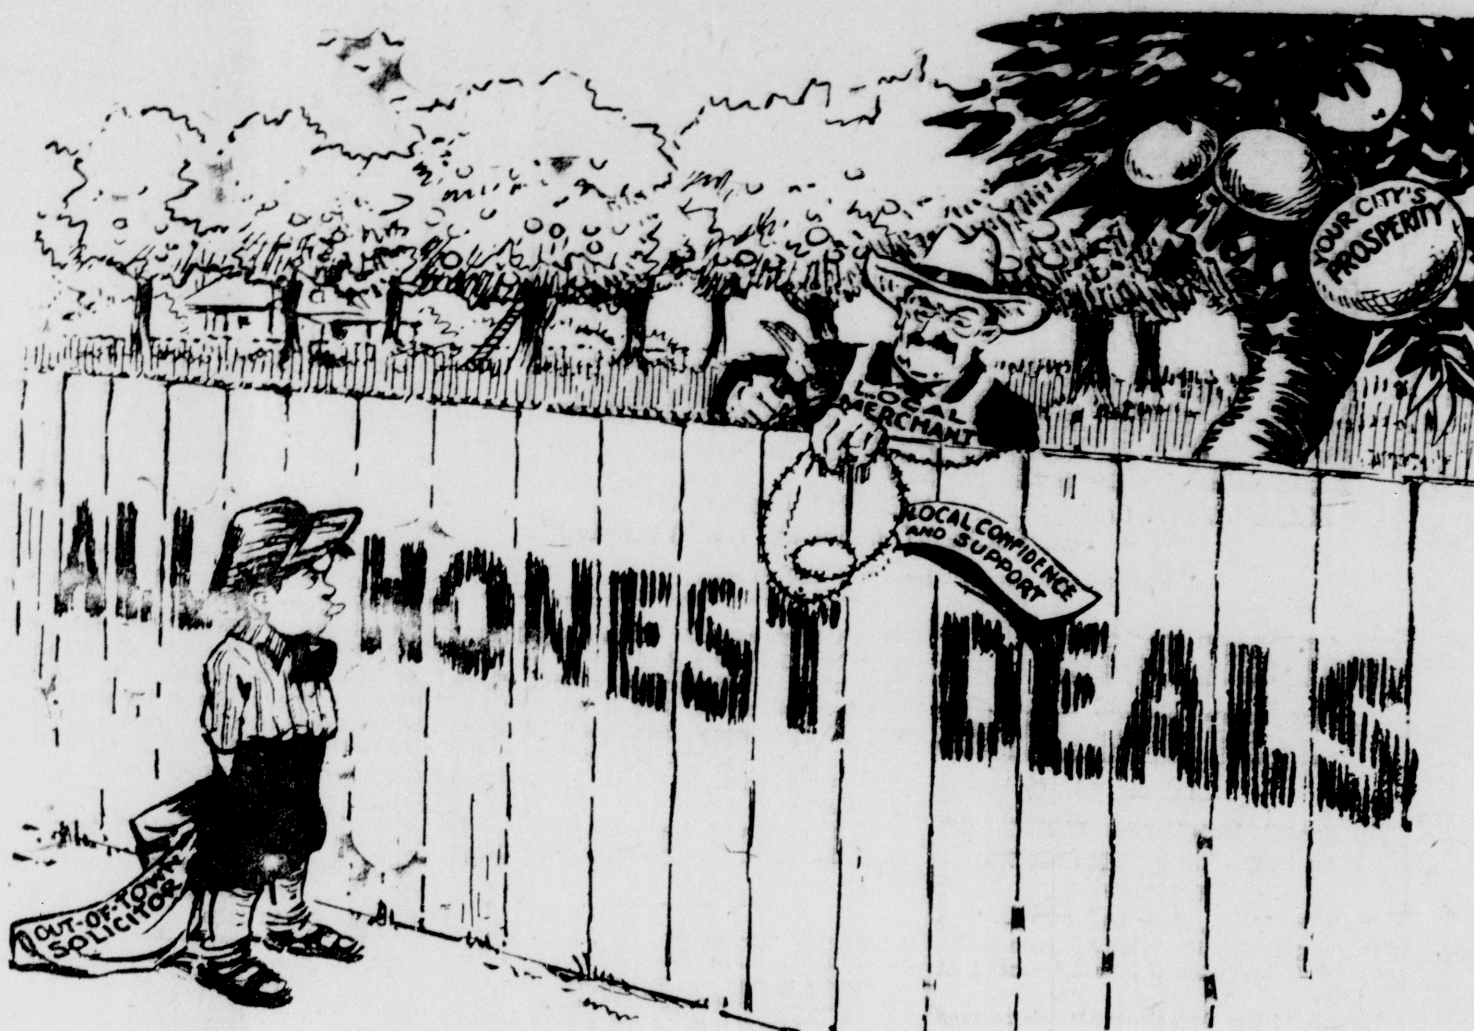

THE return of the long skirt is expected to have its effect on the manners of young women, says Vogue editorially. Once it had departed, young ladies became free, abrupt and even uncouth in deportment. They sprawled on the floor, hung a leg over the arm of a chair, hooked their toes around the legs of the chair and sat about with one foot tucked under. Such actions distressed those who were accustomed to graceful movements and close application to conventions. They lamented the short skirt as the cause of the departure from accepted manners.

Now the long skirt is back and it is expected to have its effect. A fashion writer says: Every decade has its rhythm. Every era moves to a different beat. The sixties floated on their billow of crinoline. The eighties bustled. The nineties romped. The pre-war period hobbled. The postwar shimmied and stamped to the frenzied beat of the Charleston. Now, there is a new roll of the drums of the ages. Saxophones have taken to cooler croonings; 1930 skims smooth and free. Gone are the pallid slink of the vamp, the lope of the jazzy, contorted dancing. If you are hollow-chested or plastically "cute," you are out of step with the tom-tom of the times. Wear the clothes of this year with the postures of last year and the result is confusion.

If the change in woman's fashions brings about the hoped for result, experts will have earned a blessing. And evidence will be added in support of the theory that clothes have a marked effect on personal conduct.

Minnesota a Haven

THE numerous bank robberies in Minnesota signify that the lawless element has found a haven within the state, says the New Ulm Journal. Conditions are most favorable for bandits to operate. There is no state constabulary, and by the time sheriffs and police officers in neighboring counties and cities are notified the bandits are lost in the maze of highways that furnish suitable avenues of escape. There will be no cessation in this banditry until a state constabulary, equipped with armored cars and machine guns, is organized to cope with the situation. Further, punishment must be drastic. Bring back the whipping post for certain classes of malefactors and immediately crime of this kind will decrease amazingly.

HEAVYWEIGHT FIGHT MORATORIUM NOW RULES IN AMERICA

PRIMO CARNERA SCHEDULED TO GO BACK TO EUROPE

MAX SCHMELING KEEPING HIS WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP SAFE IN GERMANY

PHIL SCOTT AND YOUNG STRIBLING TO DO THEIR ACT IN LONDON

By DIXON STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, July 23.—With Primo Carnera definitely scheduled for a return trip to Europe, Max Schmeling keeping his world's championship safe in Germany, and Phil Scott and Willie Stribling billed to do their act in London, American boxing fans today looked forward to a welcome heavyweight fight moratorium.

The heavyweight program of recent months has produced such a plethora of fouls and unsatisfactory endings that Madison Square Garden officials doubt the advisability of staging another heavyweight attraction this season, and they are making plans for a program which will eliminate the mastodons.

There is only one heavyweight attraction which would alter their program—a contest between Jack Sharkey and Vittorio Campolo, in whom the Garden has a financial interest. At present Sharkey is holding out for a $100,000 guarantee. Unless he comes to terms shortly and agrees to accept a percentage, the Garden's program for the balance of the summer will be:

Aug. 7.—Jack (Kid) Berg vs. Kid Chocolate.
Sept. 11.—Young Jack Thompson vs. Jimmy McLarnin for the world's welterweight championship.
Sept. 25.—Al Singer vs. the winner of the Berg-Chocolate match, for the world's lightweight championship.

LEADERSHIP REGAINED PARTLY THROUGH CO-OPERATION OF NEW YORK GIANTS

LATTER HELD CHICAGO CUBS EVEN IN A DOUBLE-HEADER

(By United Press)

Brooklyn's Robins were back in the lead of the National League's pennant race today, with confidence strengthened by their success in remaining in the fight despite their worst slump of the season.

The Robins regained the lead yesterday, partly through the co-operation of the New York Giants, who held the Chicago Cubs even in a double-header, but largely through an unexpectedly brilliant performance by Hollis Thurston, "bull pen" pitcher.

Robinson's pitching staff was riddled by the slugging of the Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals during the past week and he gambled on Thurston to start the game. Thurston held St. Louis to 3 scratch hits and won his game, 1 to 0, only one Cardinal getting as far as second base.

A ninth inning rally which produced two runs gave the Chicago Cubs a 5 to 4 victory over New York in the first game of a double-header, but the Giants came back to win the seven-inning second game, 6 to 1.

Philadelphia defeated Pittsburgh, 11 to 5, in the only other National League game. Phil Collins pitched for the winners and led the attack with a pair of homers and a single.

George Uhle's pinch single in the eighth inning drove in two runs and gave Detroit a 6 to 5 triumph over the Athletics.

Dick Coffman pitched the St. Louis

Browns to their third consecutive win over Washington, 3 to 1.
Late inning rallies gave Cleveland two victories over New York, 6 to 5 and 10 to 8.

Errors gave Boston a 4 to 3 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

American Association Tabs

Kansas City, Mo., July 23.—Fred Spurgeon, outfielder for the Kansas City Blues, yesterday took affairs in his own hands when the game with St. Paul reached the final frame tied 2 and 2, and clouted out a single to center which scored Susce and brought a 3 to 2 victory. The win evened the series.

Louisville, Ky., July 23.—Two runs, collected in an eighth inning rally, gave Louisville a 7 to 5 victory over Columbus in the second game of the series. Jess Doyle allowed the Louisville club 15 safeties.

Toledo, O., July 23.—Making their seven hits good for seven runs, the Toledo Mud Hens won their second consecutive game from Indianapolis by a 7 to 2 score. Bunched hits brought in scores in the first, third, fourth and seventh innings. Connally allowed Indianapolis eight hits but kept them well scattered.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 23.—Minneapolis and Milwaukee split a double bill yesterday, the Millers taking the first game, 8 to 3, while the Brewers came back to win the nightcap 14 to 6. Four pitchers were used by Minneapolis in the second game but were unable to stop the hitting of the Brewers.

Cochet Facing Crisis

By HARDIN BURNLEY

SINCE the retirement of Rene Lacoste because of ill health, two years ago, his former team-mate on France's famous "Three Musketeers"—Henri Cochet—generally has been recognized as the world's best amateur tennis player. For the next few days that reputation will be at stake in the Davis Cup finals which will be played at Auteuil.

France is defending the Davis Cup which Lacoste, Cochet & Co. won from the United States in 1927 and successfully retained for the past two years.

At Wimbledon, a fortnight or so ago, the French stars wobbled and all but shot from the tennis heavens as "Bill" Tilden's sun arose again and dashing young Wilmer Allison humbled the hitherto all-conquering Cochet.

Of course, at this writing Tilden has announced he will not play with the U. S. Davis Cup team, a situation for which temperament and tea table governing tactics are largely responsible.

With or without Tilden, the U. S. team—inspired by its Wimbledon victories—looks as though it might retrieve the Davis Cup if George M. Lott, Jr., Johnny Doeg, Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn rise to the occasion en masse or in a majority of their matches.

To win, Uncle Sam will have to eliminate France's best in the singles, and that will mean Cochet unless he shows an utterly unexpected reversal of form.

Some very definite reports have come overseas that Jean Borotra is in better form than ever and that he may even outshine Cochet in the finals. At Wimbledon, Jean seemed better than Henri, and some will not be surprised at all if the popular "Bouncing Basque" headlines the final big act in the Davis Cup drama.

However, Cochet has that which real sport experts know as "class," and "class" never reveals itself so well as when its possessor needs it in a crisis.

Nevertheless, the Sport Bug believes Uncle Sam will soon start packing the Davis Cup for its return trip.

were Napoli, Benevento, Avellino, Foggia and Potenza (northern section). Those five provinces have a total area of 8,442 square miles and a population of 3,843,778. Melfi, a city of 12,000 in Potenza, was reported almost completely destroyed, with a preliminary estimate of 100 dead and 380 injured. Montecalvo Irpino, in Avellino, reported 50 dead and many injured. Other reports poured in from towns and cities all through the five provinces. The provinces of Comptasso, Matna and Bori also were affected.

The earthquake came at about 10 minutes after 1 A. M. Preceding the shock, two violent explosions occurred in the Sulphur Springs at Pozzuoli, on the Bay of Naples. Mud boiled out like a geyser. The director of the scientific office at Pozzuoli said the Sulphur Springs acted like a safety valve for the activity of Vesuvius.

Prof. Alessandro Malladra, director of the Vesuvian observatory, estimated the epicenter of the disturbance at 80 miles east of Naples exactly in the Sarno zone, so that the earthquake may be considered a repetition of the one in 1929, which centered there but did slight damage.

Religious services of thanksgiving for the escape of the city from greater damage will be held in the Naples cathedral and other churches this evening.

I was the first foreign correspondent to reach here. The city was in incredible disorder. Six-story apartment houses were split as though by a giant ax, exposing the living quarters of the routed families with their belongings left as they were.

It was almost incredible that the casualty list here had not been enormous. The upper floors of buildings along the Via Casanova were wrecked and the debris including roofs and chimneys, had crashed into the street where the frightened populace had gathered in thousands.

Beds hung suspended from the opened sides of buildings. Chairs and furniture, tumbled about in disorder, could be seen where the inhabitants had left them.

Police surrounded the most badly affected area while crowds hung on the outskirts, viewing the destruction with grief. Many buildings were ordered evacuated in the fear that they would collapse.

2 TOWNS ENTIRELY DESTROYED BY QUAKE

Naples, July 23.—It was reported today that the towns of Villanova and Montecalvo, both in the province of Avellino, were totally destroyed by the earthquake.

Eighty per cent of Villanova's population of 5,000 were reported killed, which would mean 4,000 dead.

The reports lacked official confirmation, however.

It was reported 300 were dead in Montecalvo. The town of Venosa in the province of Potenza also was reported almost entirely destroyed.

Vatican City, July 23.—News of the earthquake in southern Italy was transmitted to the pope early today through official sources, and was followed by telegrams from ecclesiastical authorities in the stricken districts. The pope expressed the deepest grief and anxiety, and asked for full details. He sent condolences and his blessings to the bishop of Melfi.

ENTHUSIASTIC letters about the Ford car arrive daily from every part of the world. The following is typical of a great number received.

"Just a word regarding our experience with the Model A Ford.

"We purchased the car January 7, 1929. In the first twelve months it was driven more than twenty-four thousand miles over all kinds of roads and in all kinds of weather, from the nearly impassable roads we had in the spring of 1929 through burning heat. Also through the heaviest of rain-storms where many cars were dead and had to sit on the roadside until they were dried out and pulled in, and through deep snow.

"The valves were ground at twenty thousand miles and apparently the car was running perfectly at that time, but some of the service men thought it would be advisable to grind them. Inspection of the motor at that time showed it to be in perfect condition.

"The only expense we have had is 75c for a shock absorber link and 50c for a new rubber for the windshield wiper.

"The car has given an average better than twenty miles to the gallon of gas. We are well pleased with the performance of the Model A Ford car and believe it is the most economical car there is on the market."

Thousands of other Ford owners report the same satisfactory service and economy of operation and up-keep. In comfort, safety, speed, power, beauty, reliability—in everything that goes to make a good automobile—the new Ford is a value far above the price you pay.

NEW FORD SEDAN

FOREST FIRES CAUSING DAMAGE

Forest Law Requires That Fires be Reported, Even Though Owner of Land Did Not Set It

MAN-CAUSED FIRES

In Practically Every Case Fires Could Have Been Prevented With a Little Precaution

With continued dry weather fire conditions are becoming more hazardous each day and even though it is unusually early in the season for fires, during the past ten days there has been some ten or a dozen fires reported into the local ranger's office here.

These fires, in most cases, were set by berry pickers who have carelessly knocked out their pipe ashes or tossed away their cigarette stubs. In some instances fishermen have left their camp-fires burning, careless burning of land clearing slash was the cause of others, while in still another, the wiring on a new car, set fire to the car, burned the garage and a hundred acres of beautiful green forest west of Pequot into a black charred desolation, burning into the roots, killing everything in its path.

Some of these fires have destroyed hay in the stack, threatened fields of ripe grain and still others have burned deep holes into the peat soil, requiring men hours of hot, tiresome labor in the smoke, trenching, carrying water or working with pump engines and force pumps, as conditions would permit.

In practically all cases these fires were man-caused and could have been prevented, with a little precaution. Even in some cases where fires were set unintentionally, had parties that knew of the fire burning, taken prompt action themselves, to extinguish the fire, or had they promptly reported it to the Forestry Department, little damage would have been caused.

It might be well to remember that the present state law makes it a misdemeanor for anyone to allow an unauthorized fire to burn on their premises, even though the owner of the land did not set the fire, the law requires that he make every effort to put it out and must make a report of it to the nearest Township Fire Warden or Ranger.

Fire reports in the Brainerd district may be made by telephone on a collect ticket to the Ranger's office in the City Hall, to the Forest Patrolmen stationed at Pequot, Pillager, Backus, Emily or Hillman, or to the local Township Fire Warden.

The fame of the Lake Hubert Minnesota Camps' excellent swimming, riflery program, horseback riding, sailing, canoeing and camping has spread to every corner of the United States during their 22 summers of successful operation. Each year a large number of states are represented at the Lake Hubert Camps.

Each year campers continue to return from distant points in this country to enjoy the all inclusive camping program included in the Lake Hubert Camps' daily activity schedules.

The staff at Camp Lincoln for Boys and at Camp Lake Hubert for Girls is the main reason the camps rank among the finest in America.

Lloyd Boyce, intermural aquatic director and assistant varsity coach at the U. of Minnesota.

Every camper takes a two-day truck trip and tour through the iron mines of Minnesota and also one canoe trip.

Second and third year camp club members may take additional canoe trips, the Mississippi 200-mile canoe trip, or the 225-mile tour through Itasca State Park and Forest Reserve.

Flyer's Mother Dies at Her Home in Kansas

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. H. D. Billings of Delphos, Kans. Death came as the result of heart attacks and a choking spell caused by a chicken bone becoming lodged in her throat.

Edison Billings is quite well known in Brainerd. He was in the hospital here for some time last summer after he and another aviator were hurt when their plane crashed near Rice Lake, and his mother came to see him, and visited with Mrs. E. P. Shipp.

ARLENE HAGBERG IN LEAD BY 200 VOTES

Passes Laura Racine Today by Slight Margin in Race for Title of Miss Brainerd

DORIS GEIST, THIRD

Race Close as Leading Contestants Near 100,000 Mark With Eight Days to go

As the leading contests in the Publix-Daily Dispatch most popular girl contest zoomed along toward the 100,000 mark today Arlene Hagberg swept into the lead, holding a scant margin of 200 votes over Laura Racine as the Dispatch went to press late this afternoon.

Laura Racine went into the lead Monday and held a slight margin yesterday but could not withstand the stampede of votes for Arlene Hagberg last night. Arlene Hagberg held the lead last Saturday but the backers of Laura Racine sent her into the lead and Doris Geist was second with Arlene Hagberg third. Yesterday Laura Racine still held the lead but Arlene Hagberg had forced Doris Geist from second place to third.

Doris Geist and Cleo Mayo continued to hold a firm grip on third and fourth places and friends of theirs declare that they have an excellent chance to win. In fact it still looks like anybody's race yet.

The contest will close in eight days, at 11 o'clock on the evening of July 31. And so it is just eight days until some girl will be named "Miss Brainerd" and will be awarded a free trip by rail and steamer from Minneapolis to Alaska. Think of it, a wonderful two week's trip to Alaska with all expenses paid!

Now Comes Coffee « « « from the West Coast of Central America

A rare tang and mellow richness unlike any known before... For people who want something different in coffee

If YOU'RE tired of ordinary coffee—coffee that's "indifferently" good—try a new coffee. One that's really different. Try one whose flavor comes from the mountains of Central America.

In certain tiny districts along the West Coast of Central America are grown coffees with probably the choicest flavor known today.

They have a piquant tang, and full-bodied richness that experts concede are not duplicated anywhere else in the world.

No one can tell you how good it is. We leave that for your own taste to decide.

Years ago, this coffee was first served in the famous Bohemian restaurants of San Francisco where it was brought by Folger. Travellers tasting it there spread its fame. From all parts of the world they wrote back for shipments. For that was the only way it could be obtained. Today, however, your grocer has it packed in flavor-tight vacuum tins.

Why Most Coffees Taste Alike Ordinarily you note little real difference when you change from one brand of coffee to another. That is because over 70 per cent of all the coffee entering the United States comes from one common region—where Nature gives it the same common taste.

It's a different type of coffee that makes Folger flavor different. Rare Central American coffees—mountain grown.

You will realize that this is no ordinary coffee with the very first rush of fragrance that comes with the opening of the tin.

The Flavor Test

Because Folger flavor is so distinctly different, we make an unusual offer. Buy a pound of this coffee today. Drink it tomorrow morning. Next morning drink the coffee you have been using. The third morning serve Folger's again. If for any reason you do not choose Folger's your grocer will gladly refund the full price. We'll pay him. That's fair, isn't it? Why not try it today?

"WHERE'S EMILY?"

by CAROLYN WELLS

CHAPTER XXV.

SAYRE moved restlessly and laid down his fork. The others made pretense of eating, but soon gave it up.

With one impulse they rose from the table and went out on the terrace, where Prall brought coffee to them.

Abel Collins took Lawlor into Aunt Judy's little sitting room, which was secluded and safe from interruption.

"Now," said Abel, when the two men were seated, "all the cards on the table, please. Miss Duane is my godchild, and though her fortune is in the hands of trustees, I am the one most responsible for her personal welfare. What is your exact errand here?"

"All the cards on the table it is," agreed Lawlor. "I am here to make inquiries. You must not take it amiss, for it is in the line of police duty, and we have no choice in the matter. We must investigate."

"Yes, of course," Collins spoke heavily; he did not hanker after this investigation. Who could tell whether an investigation of the case of Emily Duane might lead?

"Well, now, Mr. Collins, as man to man, if you found a dead woman, and lying beside her a fur tippet and a few diamonds that belonged to another woman, wouldn't you make inquiries? As man to man now, wouldn't you?"

"Lawlor," and Abel's blue eyes gazed at him, "I can't carry on this talk as man to man. You're the investigator, you're the inquisitor, but I'm only anxious to protect my little girl from this base, this outrageous calumny. Oh, I know you're honest enough in your suspicions and doubts, but Emily Duane couldn't have done this thing you imply—for I suppose you are implying—all cards on the table?"

"On the table it is. Well, then, sir, the chief thinks—and I think, that it might be that Miss Duane and Mrs. Pennington had a sort of tiff, and of course, they didn't fight, as men would, but there might have been a pull-about, push-about sort of time, and Mrs. Pennington went over, grabbing Miss Duane's neck chain and tippet as she went. Then, you see, Miss Duane being frightened, ran away."

"Like Little Miss Muffet," said Abel without a smile, for his mind was merely working subconsciously and his speech was automatic.

"Now, look here, Lawlor," he said, after a moment, "why not just as well say that there was a tiff—or was not, either way—but that Mrs. Pennington herself stepped a little too near the edge of the bridge, and Miss Duane tried to grab her back as she went over. Miss Duane, not being strong enough, Mrs. Pennington fell, grabbing, as you say, at the fur and the necklace of her would-be rescuer?"

"Very good," said Lawlor, looking compassionately at Abel's earnest face. "Very good, but in that case, why didn't Miss Duane scream for help, or run home and tell the tale?"

"We here, don't think Miss Duane disappeared voluntarily," and Abel drew himself up with dignity.

"Uh-huh? Well, we do. Now Mr. Collins, I'm right-down sorry for you, and sorry for all the folks in this house, but gotta do my duty. First off, I'm ordered to ask certain questions of Mrs. Bell, or of the servants here. Then, I've orders to search Miss Duane's rooms."

"But her rooms are the whole house—she owns it all."

"Shucks! You know what I mean. Her room, boodere or whatever, where she keeps her mash notes and sweetie pictures. Her diary, if she has one, and all that sort of thing."

"Oh, pshaw, Lawlor, you're 'way off. Miss Duane is not that sort of girl."

"All girls are the same sort. I didn't say there was any harm in these letters and things, did I? But a man of your age must look at things when we set out to do this business we've got to do."

Abel Collins did know it. He also knew that he could stave it off no longer, and the matter must come to a crisis.

"Very well," he said, and rang the bell.

Prall came.

"Prall," said Abel Collins, "take Mr. Lawlor to Miss Emily's rooms. Let him make such search as he wishes, and then bring him back to me."

The astute Abel had had a fair notion that Mrs. Juliana Bell would already have performed such sins of omission as she saw fit in Emily's rooms, and he concluded not to trouble her further in the matter.

So Prall solemnly conducted the pered by the terrifying Prall, who stood at attention with the yielding softness of a stone image. Only the eyes of the butler moved, but they followed the intruder's every gesture, until even the solid Lawlor was so nervous he nearly screamed.

Learning the situation, Betty stole upstairs, and the sudden appearance of this goldy-haired, sprite-like person completed the discomfort of the man who was only doing as he was told.

The prickles came to the back of his neck, perspiration bathed his brow, and his thick fingers seemed clumsier than ever as he tried to extract, from ornolu pigeonholes in a Louis Quatorze desk, what might be incriminating evidence in the Duane case.

"You poor man! You're all tired out!" cooed Betty's soft, cool voice. "Let me help you. Have you finished this lot?"

Deftly she slipped a pile of papers into a drawer and pushed it shut.

"Now, over here—or have you already done this side?"

"No, miss, I ain't. But I don't need no help."

Ordinarily, Lawlor's English was fair, but under stress of embarrassment it went by the board.

Deftly she slipped a pile of papers into a drawer and pushed it shut.

police detective to the rooms of Emily Duane.

Though not an uncouth or unkempt man, Lawlor looked about as much out of place as Christopher Sly in the bedchamber of the nameless lord.

He glanced round Emily's boudoir, which was done up that year in palest draperies of yellow and pink and mauve, with gilded furniture.

He stepped gingerly on the fair, soft rugs, but duty is duty, and setting his teeth, Lawlor went to work.

Even more than by the dainty trappings was the detective ham-

He was a well-meaning sort and a most kind-hearted man. He had daughters of his own, and he wished no harm to Emily Duane, but he most fervently wished this Lorelei-like young woman and that staring wooden soldier of a butler at the top of the North Pole or the bottom of the North Sea, he didn't care which.

Nor was he set more at ease when he caught sight in a mirror of a slight wink on Betty's part, and the merest fractional part of a nod from Prall.
